

MEXICO'S FARGICAL ELECTION JUSTIFIES AMERICAN ATTITUDE

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS POINT TO PREDICT THAT FAIR ELECTION WAS IMPOS-SIBLE.

RESULT IS UNCERTAIN

Week or a Fortnight Must Elapse Before Result Will Be Made Public.—England Will Await Outcome.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 27.—On the face of the meagre returns from the Mexican election and apparent indications that a president had not been chosen, officials in Washington today based justification for the policy of this government in declining in advance to recognize the election as legal and fair.

Result Uncertain

Mexico City, Oct. 27.—The returns of yesterday's election may possibly be known within a week, but it is more likely that a fortnight will elapse before the result is placed before the public.

Not even a good guess as to who was at the top of the pole can be made at present. Returns from near by states are fragmentary.

At Vera Cruz, Oct. 27.—Provisional President Victoriano Huerta obtained 1,540 of the 2,000 votes cast in Vera Cruz at yesterday's election,
according to official returns.

General Felix Diaz polled 300 and the remaining votes were scattered.

England's Attitude.

London, Oct. 27.—Before taking any further steps in regard to Mexico England intends to await the result of the elections in that country and also information as to the policy of the United States.

The Associated Press has informed the foreign office today that nothing would be done without consultation with the United States.

In spite of reports to the contrary
England has not intimated or participated in any exchange of views between the European powers in regard to Mexico.

Germany Active.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The German protected cruiser Nuernburg sailed today from Yokohama for Mazatlan, on the Pacific coast of Mexico, where she will stay during the disturbances in that country. The German cruiser Berlin will arrive at Vera Cruz in a short time to relieve the cruiser Hertha.

BELOIT PLAYER IS REPORTED IMPROVED

Horace Wilcox, Lineman Injured In Saturday's game, Recovers Following Operation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 27.—The condition of Horace Wilcox of Charlotte, Mich., a Beloit junior who had his kidney ruptured in the Beloit-Lawrence game Saturday, is improved.
He was operated upon Saturday night and physicians this morning said the only danger now is that a blood clot may form. He is hopeful of going home in a week or ten days. At the time of the accident Wilcox was punting down the field under the punt
from his own side and was blocked by a Lawrence player.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS UNDER CARRANZA CONTROL NORTH MEXICO

Throughout northern Mexico the Constitutionalists under General Carranza are practically in control of the situation. They have set up a government of their own and hope to form a separate nation
if they cannot gain control of all Mexico. The three leading figures in the revolution in northern Mexico are General Carranza, commander-in-chief of the Constitutional forces; General Obregon, and Gov.
Maytoreno of the province of Sonora.

An aeroplane was recently stolen
by the Constitutionalists from a U. S. deputy marshal and taken into Sonora, to be used by the rebels.

SNOW AND FROST IN SOUTHWEST STATES

Missouri and Texas Visited by Extreme Cold Weather Sunday Afternoon and Night.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—A heavy snow storm swept over Rulla, Mo., and surrounding country last night and today, breaking down trees and tearing off branches until the streets were blocked. A rain in St. Louis turned to sleet and snow this morning but the snow melted nearly as fast as it fell.

Temperature Drops.

Amarillo, Tex., Oct. 27.—The temperature dropped to twenty-two degrees here last night. The freeze destroyed a large amount of immature feed crops. The cold wave is prevalent throughout the Texas plain country.

WILSON AT MOBILE TO GIVE ADDRESSES

President Spends Half Day at Southern City at Opening of Commercial Congress.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 27.—President Wilson arrived in Mobile early today to make two speeches to members of the Southern Commercial Congress.
He breakfasted with representatives of the Commercial Congress. At ten o'clock he was to make his principal address, review a parade, speak briefly from the reviewing stand and at 12:40 leave on his special train for Washington.

Business interests throughout the south were represented at the beginning of the sessions of the meeting and are devoted to stirring up interest in the opening of the Panama canal and the advantages it offers to southern business interests.

ARSON SQUAD BUSY; FINE HOME BURNED

Fine Residence Owned by Brother of Home Secretary Burned by Wild Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Eng., Oct. 27.—Militant suffragettes this morning burned Till House, a fine residence at Brims-ingham, belonging to T. McKenna, a brother of Home Secretary Reginald McKenna. A quantity of suffrage literature was found lying on the ground together with a placard stating that the "arson squad" had set fire to the mansion as a protest against forcible feeding of imprisoned suffragettes.

MOTORIST IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT IN STORM

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 27.—Dr. Claude
S. Burns is dead as a result of an automobile accident which occurred Sunday night near the home of Charles Adkin, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives. Blinded by the rain Burns drove his machine into a ditch and his head was crushed by the steering wheel when the auto turned over.

DEFER EXECUTION OF SENTENCE FOR LARGENY

New York, Oct. 27.—William J. C.
Cummins, whose conviction for grand larceny in connection with the Carnegie Trust company failure was recently upheld by the state court of appeals, was committed to the Tombs prison today and the execution of his sentence of four to eight years in Sing Sing deferred for a week.

SEVEN FIREMEN LOST LIVES IN BLAZE IN MILWAUKEE SUNDAY

Seven firemen lost.
Seventeen Others Badly Injured in Conflagration Which Did Million Dollars Damage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Oct. 27.—Seven firemen lost their lives and seventeen others were badly injured when a property valued at a million dollars was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The fire started in the building of the Goodyear Rubber company on East Water street and spread to adjoining buildings. The dead and injured were caught by falling walls when an explosion wrecked the Goodyear building after the blaze seemed under control.

BEGIN FINAL TASK ON CURRENCY BILL

Senate Banking Committee Goes into Executive Session With Sentiment Favoring Central Government Bank.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 27.—A final struggle over the administration currency bill in the senate banking committee began today when the committee went into executive session with a well defined sentiment in favor of a government-controlled central bank in evidence. A general compromise on the various provisions of the administration bill was looked for.

THAW PROCEEDINGS ARE OPENED AGAIN

Question of a Continuance in Extradition Case is Argued.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Concord, N. H., Oct. 27.—Harry K.
Thaw, his counsel and the attorneys representing the state of New York went to Rochester today to attend a hearing before Governor Peck at his home in that city on the question of a further continuance in the Thaw extradition proceedings.

Thaw seeks a delay of two weeks in which to meet the indictment returned in New York county last week. The New York lawyers are opposed to the continuance.

VICTORY TO GOVERNMENT IN ITALIAN ELECTIONS

Rome, Oct. 27.—The further results of the Italian general elections reported today confirm the government victory and it is certain that the premier will have a large majority of supporters in the chamber of deputies.

ACQUIT MRS. GOTTSCHALK OF MURDERING HUSBAND

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 27.—The jury
in the trial of John Burton and Mrs.
George Gottschalk charged with the murder of the woman's husband, brought in a verdict acquitting Mrs.
Gottschalk and sentencing Burton to four years in prison for man slaughter.

STATE TAX LEVY IS OVER SEVEN MILLION

SECRETARY OF STATE SENDS CERTIFICATES OF APPOR-TIONMENTS TO COUN-TY CLERKS.

INCLUDES A NEW ITEM

Condition of General Funds Makes Necessary Million and a Half Extra Levy—Most for Schools and Highways.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—A state tax was levied today to support the state government during the next year. In addition to the usual amounts that are levied for the support of the common schools, university and normal schools, the buildings of good roads and the erection of the new capitol, the state levies $1,500,000 this year for the support of the general government. Secretary of State John S.
Donald sent a certificate of apportionment to each county today, stating the amount to be collected and the purposes for which it is collected.

The total tax levied this year aggregates $7,635,318 and is made up as follows:

Interest on trust fund cert.	$ 157,570
Free high schools	175,000
Graded schools	200,000
State university	1,244,000
Normal schools	499,627
Common schools	1,898,731
State highways	1,650,000
New capitol	450,000
General purposes	1,500,000
Total	$7,635,318

The tax is based on the value of $2,998,167,705 and the rate on one dollar is slightly more than two and one-half mills.

"All the above amounts are for education and highway, with the exception of most for new capitol and general purposes and are returned to the people either directly or indirectly with additional moneys," says Secretary Donald in a letter to the county clerks accompanying the certificate of levy. "The levy of $1,500,000 for general purposes is unusual, and it is, therefore, proper that the taxpayers of the state should make special inquiry into it. The levy seemed necessary in view of the consideration of the detailed statement of general fund receipts and disbursements which showed that there would be an estimated balance on hand July 1 of a special tax of $1,500,000 for levy would be inadequate to meet demands on the state treasury prior to a further substantial collection of revenues. It is estimated that there will be a working balance of $1,500,000 in the general fund on July 1, 1914, exclusive of the amounts required to meet extraordinary demands for highway aid of more than $700,000, for the period between July 1, 1914 and March 1, 1915, when their funds will be available for highways and bridges.

"Should buildings and other operations be for any reason delayed longer than anticipated under the apportionment made by law, then there would be a larger balance in the general fund on July 1, 1914 (than is here estimated); but it is deemed unwise to base estimates on a mere possibility,
and should such a surplus arise, it would be operated to diminish the amount to be raised in succeeding years.

"Two causes have made necessary
the levy of a special state tax this year, namely, the large appropriations for the support of permanent school property, the erection of buildings at state institutions, etc., made available during the current fiscal year by the last legislature, and also what now appears to have been an excessive levy of 15 mills in 1912. When a percentage of almost $2,000,000 was made last year, it was not anticipated that the demands on the state treasury would be as great as they were during the fiscal year 1913.

Purpose of Revisions.

"As there seems to be some misapprehension in the public mind as to the meaning of the term 'tax remission,' it is proper here to state that,
when there is a surplus in the general fund of the state, (that is to say, a sum of money in excess of that needed to meet usual demands), the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer may apply this surplus to the state tax. In other words, certain authorized levies, to the amount that can be spared from the state treasury, are not made upon the general property of the state, and the taxpayers are to that extent relieved from taxation.

"For example, in 1912 no tax was levied for the new capitol, university and normal schools. These amounts, which, under ordinary circumstances,
would have been paid directly by the taxpayers of the state were drawn from the general fund instead. This is what is commonly known as a 'tax remission.' Within the past ten years $6,653,410 of the state taxes have been remitted in this manner.

Secretary of State Donald called a meeting of the other two members of the board last Saturday. The conference was held in the governor's office and it was decided to make the levy that was announced by the state department today.

EXAMINE MRS. EATON TO PICK SOME FLAW IN ORIGINAL STORY

State's Lawyers Carefully Cover in Cross Examination Direct Testimony of the Defendant.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Jennie May Eaton resumed the trial for cross examination today in her trial for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton.

Eaton was questioned for six hours last Saturday and under the guidance of her attorney, William Morse, told a story of tender care for her husband and consistent devotion to him. She denied that she had given him poison and testified that his frequent dabbling with subtle drugs and persistent liquor drinking had taxed her patience and made her fear for her life.

Today district Attorney Barker led her over this story dissecting it in an effort to find some flaw which would strengthen the government's contention that she gave the admiral a beverage containing a deadly poison.

At the suggestion of the district attorney, medical examiner Gilman T.
Osgood of Rockland sat at a table in plain view of the defendant. Dr. Osgood, who has devoted much time to a study of insanity, jotted down notes of his observations of the witness.

CANADIAN PREMIERS CONFER IN OTTAWA

Deliberations and Conclusions Will Be Altogether of an Advisory Character.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 27.—A conference of the premiers of the various Provinces, similar in its scope and purposes to the conference held in 1910, began here today with practically a full attendance. The importance of the conference can scarcely be overestimated, notwithstanding the fact that its deliberations and conclusions will be altogether of an advisory character.

Occupying first place on the agenda is the question of maritime province representation. The reapportionment of members of the Dominion parliament, based on census figures of the year ago, showed a loss to all of the eastern provinces and a gain for the western provinces. The Maritime Provinces now desire to protect themselves against any further loss of representation by the working out of the population unit. To accomplish what these provinces wish, however, would require in addition to the consent of parliament an amendment to the British North American Act.

In addition to the question of representation the premiers will consider the matter of the federal subsidies,
the incorporation of interprovincial companies, and reforms in the judicature act calculated to produce uniformity.

DOLAN LONE SURVIVOR THIRTY-SIX RICH MEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—Thomas Dolan, who has been recognized for many years as a leader among Philadelphia's "captains of industry," entered upon his 80th year today. In connection with the recent enactment of an income tax measure by Congress, the fact is recalled that Mr. Dolan is the solitary survivor among thirty-six Philadelphians who were assessed as having incomes of $100,000 or more when the Civil War income tax was passed in 1864.

FORMER NAVY SECRETARY LONG IS SEVENTY-FIVE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Hingham, Mass., Oct. 27.—John D.
Long, former Governor of Massachusetts and Secretary of the Navy during the war with Spain, was seventy-five years old today and the occasion was marked by the receipt of a number of congratulatory messages from various parts of the country. His fellow-townsmen proposed to have a public observance of the anniversary, but out of respect to the wishes of Mr.
Long the plan was abandoned.

ELECTRIC VEHICLE MEN CONVENE IN CHICAGO

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The Electric Vehicle Association of America, with a membership embracing the leading manufacturers of electric vehicles and supplies, assembled at the Hotel La-Salle today for its fourth annual convention. The sessions will last two days. In connection with the convention there is an elaborate display of electric vehicles and accessories.

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE FAIR WAS OPENED TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 27.—The annual State Fair under the auspices of the South Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical Society opened today, with every indication that it will surpass all of its predecessors. Particular attention has been paid this year to the agricultural display, with the hardware, live stock, manufacturing and other exhibits are better than those of any other year.

STATE SAFETY CONGRESS MEETS AT HARRISBURG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—State officials, representative manufacturers and leaders of organized labor assembled at the Capitol in considerable number today for the thirty state convention for industrial welfare and safety. Among the topics discussed during the day were: Vocational education, fire prevention, safety and health in the mines, and good highways and their effect on industry.

FORTUNES IN POSTAGE STAMPS ARE EXHIBITED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 27.—The first international stamp exhibition ever held in America was opened today in the Engineering Societies Building in this city and will be continued until Saturday. Stamps with a market value of over $2,000,000 are on display. The most valuable specimens in the lot are two unused copies of the Mauritius issue of 1847, owned by Henry J. Duveen of London, and valued at $18-000. Another notable exhibit is George Heber Worthington of Cleveland, who owns one of the most valuable stamp collections in America.

TWO LAKE STEAMERS COLLIDE AT DULUTH

Barge Pennington is Badly Damaged
When Struck by Steamer Coralia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Duluth, Oct. 27.—The barge Pennington of the Tonawanda line up-bound light, and the steamer Coralia, down bound with ore, collided in the Duluth ship canal late yesterday, the barge being badly damaged. The barge was towed to the Superior shipyards and the Coralia continued on its way after putting back to the harbor where it was inspected.

At the time of the accident a heavy wind was blowing. The steamer Clyde, towing the Pennington, passed the Coralia safely, but the wind whipped the barge over against the south-pier of the canal and directly in front of the Coralia.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS GRILL MRS. HENNING

Woman Who Bared Plot in Funk Conspiracy Case on Saturday Resumes Witness Stand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Prepared for a severe cross examination by attorneys for the defense, Mrs. Josephine Henning, who made a complete confession Saturday of her part in the alleged conspiracy to defame Clarence S.
Funk, resumed the witness stand today in the trial of Daniel Donahoe and Isaac Stefel.

State's attorneys expected the defense to attack Mrs. Henning's character, and were prepared to interpose objections to protect the witness.
When court opened it was expected that the cross examination of the star witness would continue practically all day.

HOLD UP DELIVERY OF COAL AT SPARTA

Severe Suffering Follows Refusal of Dealers to Make Sales Over City Scales.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sparta, Wis., Oct. 27.—This city of 4,000 population is experiencing a real freeze-out. All orders received at the main coal yards of the city were today rejected and buyers were notified that it was impossible to operate under the new city ordinance which requires that all coal delivered be weighed on the city scales.

One small coal yard remains, but it cannot meet the demands. The thermometer dropped below freezing point today and suffering is intense.

STRIKE BREAKERS TO CALUMET MINES

Men Expected by Hundreds to Take Places of Striking Miners.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 27.—Men are expected here by the hundreds this week to take the places of copper mine strikers. A special train with several hundred men for the Calumet and Hecla and Superior mines left St.
Ignace today and preparations have been made to give it adequate protection when it arrives. It is unlikely that any more men will be brought in at night owing to the difficulty in guarding against attacks. A car load of men arrived at the Quincy mine
this morning.

Notable Wedding at Panama.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Panama, Oct. 27.—The British Legation was the scene of a notable wedding today, when Miss Dita Mallet, daughter of Sir Claude Octavio Mallet, British minister to Panama and Costa Rica, became the bride of Kenneth Mackenzie Pringle, eldest son and heir of Sir John Pringle, one of the wealthiest residents of Jamaica, West Indies.

MANY DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS AT THE SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONGRESS MEET

Pop. Senor Ignacio Calderon (left) and Hon. Joseph A. Ransdell, Bottom, Gen. Bennett H. Young.

There will be many prominent speakers besides President Wilson at the annual convention of the Southern Commercial congress in Mobile, Ala., October 27-31. Among those who will address the meeting are Hon. Joseph A. Ransdell, U. S. senator from Louisiana, and president of the National Rivers and Harbors congress; Gen. Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and Senor Ignacio Calderon, envoy from Bolivia.

FRANCE WILL PROFIT LITTLE FROM CANAL

ENGLAND AND GERMANY TO BE THE PRINCIPAL IMMEDIATE BENEFICIARIES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, October 27.—France, the builder of the Suez Canal and first to begin the work in Panama, has followed American progress on the Isthmus more earnestly perhaps than any other European country. Regret that France could not have completed the work so nobly conceived, these are appreciative comment of French observers on the completion of the vast enterprise.

The French government has made a study of the effects of the opening of the canal on French commerce.
The Ministries of the Navy, of Commerce and the Colonies appointed a commission of four members, M. Julli-diere, engineer in the chief of the board of bridges and highways; M.
Donay, an engineer in the bureau of arts and manufactures of the ministry of commerce, and two naval officers, Lieutenants Hallier and Byenayme, to inquire into the effects of the opening of the canal on French commerce, and particularly on French colonies in the Antilles and Oceania. The commission visited the canal zone and the French colonies concerned and examined the material of an immense amount of material.

The commissioners, after a full consideration of all the facts at their disposal, have reported that French commerce will not be greatly affected by the canal. Only 250,000 tons of French shipping will use the canal route during the first year of its opening, nor can the commission perceive that tonnage passing through the canal will be likely to increase greatly because the French mercan-<

BIDS HIS FAREWELL WITH ABLE SERMONS

REV. J. W. LAUGHLIN GIVES TWO MASTERFUL ADDRESSES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

GIVES KEEN ANALYSIS

Fundamental Teachings and Doctrines of Christian Faith Emphasized During His Pastorate, Carefully Reviewed.

Summing up in effect, as far as it was possible in two short addresses, the fundamental truths of Christianity, the greatness and the importance of which he has striven to impress upon the members of his church and congregation during his eight years as pastor, the Rev. J. W. Laughlin delivered two masterful sermons in farewell at the Presbyterian church on Sunday.

The great ideal and object lesson of the life of Christ was emphasized in the morning address, and the fundamental principles of Christianity doctrine as presented in the Bible, the inspired writings of God; were dwelt upon in the evening. Dr. Laughlin was never more effective than he was in his discourses yesterday. He has taken the members of his church and congregation to his farewell sermons might be called his masterpieces. He has proved his worth as a great preacher, and Janesville citizens deeply regret that he will no longer be with them.

Dr. Laughlin has been minister of the local Presbyterian church for eight years. During this time he has been an ardent and ambitious worker in all lines of church activity and in matters pertaining to the welfare of the city and the community as well. His efforts have been keenly appreciated. On Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church parlors a reception will be held for Dr. and Mrs. Laughlin to which members of the church and friends are most cordially invited.

"The sermon which I am to give this morning, dear friends, is taken from the which I have preached to you eight years ago, when I began my work in this parish," said Dr. Laughlin in opening his morning address. "In looking over my notes, I find that in the time I have been with you, I have referred to them many times, and so I am not going to go into details this morning with a long farewell sermon, but I shall give the main facts, and leave them with you."

"I asked the Jews, 'What then shall I do, Jesus, who is called Christ?' The fatal answer then came, 'Crucify Him.' I knew the jealousy which prevailed at that time. He was determined to release the Savior from this answer. Then we asked the question, 'Why did the Jews say, 'Crucify Him?'"

"Following 2,000 years, this same question is before us again. We must answer it. Here is the Christ of experience before us. Here is the Christ of theology before us. Here is the Christ of philosophy before us. Answer the question yourself."

"Let us trace our knowledge of the peoples who lived 2,000 years ago in Palestine, and we will find that we know more about the peoples of the first Christian era than of any other race that ever lived. Why? Because we know more about the Christ than of any other individual man who ever lived, and what we know of Him is reliable."

"When we review the Bible and its contents, we find what to be the most important question? The divinity of Jesus Christ. That is what we find, and it is also what Jesus is human, just as human as any one of you are. He ate, slept, wept, grew tired just as any one of us do. How is it that I can open or close my mind at will? How is it that I can move my arm when my mind tells me to do so? Who shall answer that question? Jesus didn't come to give us a philosophy. Phil. Corriden and the pulpit bearers, were Philip Doheny, James Arthur, Thos. Murray, James Fullerton, H. A. Rooney and A. Higgins. Interment was at Mt. Olivet cemetery."

"There is a lawyer, who can see an ideal lawyer in front of his mind. Over here is a carpenter, who can see an ideal carpenter before him. Again there is a surgeon, who can see an ideal surgeon before him. But who created the great ideal? It was Jesus Christ."

"After the smoke of battle had mingled into the winds of peace, following the terrible strife on the battlefield, during the sixties, the answer which came something like this: 'You did it right but blunderingly. Slavery was now settled, thereby opening a new era unto mankind. Do not think you would have them do unto you, you were the Golden Rule more strongly than ever before, and then there was peace. Not many years ago the mother toiled with the loom, striving day after day, while the husband fished. Later the men of this country saw a new day dawning, and they became ashamed. The mother was raised to the equal of the father, and all from the result of what? Yielding to Jesus Christ. If we yield to Him, the Kingdom of Jesus Christ will come.'"

Dr. Laughlin delivered another masterful sermon Sunday evening. He spoke from the following text in II Timothy: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

In beginning Dr. Laughlin again declared that he had often repeated in the pulpit, but they were facts, he affirmed, that gained in value each time they were presented. He spoke briefly on the inspirational value of the scriptures pointing out several conclusive reasons why the Bible may be called inspired of God, but its greater importance, and upon this he laid the most emphasis, was for its doctrine.

"When I speak of doctrine," said Dr. Laughlin, "I do not refer to infant baptism, to foreordination, or to the dedication of the saints. It would be better if these things were never considered. I refer to two or three fundamental teachings which lie at the very basis of Christianity. And the first of them is that all men are sinners."

wrecks all because of sin. We know it, we can see it on every side, that men are sinners. It is one of the foundation teachings of the scriptures.

"But there is another far more palliative doctrine which the Bible holds out to mankind, and it is that men may be saved. The assurance is given that they may go to that great source of wisdom and power which is Christ himself, and there they may be strengthened to withstand temptation. It is a fountain where we may be washed of our sins and made pure; we may become noble where we were ignoble; we may become pure where we were false; it gives us the vigor and determination to resist and overcome this inherent weakness of ours, which is sin."

"And still there is a third great doctrine which the Bible teaches, and it is that men may grow; they may learn to become more like Christ. Add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, and to knowledge temperance, and to temperance patience, and to patience godliness, and to godliness brotherly kindness, and to brotherly kindness charity. Faith is the connecting link between man and God and with the aid of faith man may become more perfect and more like his Maker. That's the end, that's the consummation, which the great doctrines of the scriptures aim at."

JEFFERSON TO PLAY HERE ON SATURDAY

Coach Curtis Arranges Game to Be Played in Morning, Because of Wisconsin-Minnesota Contest.

On Saturday morning of this week, the Janesville high school football squad will line up against the Jefferson eleven at the driving park. Coach Curtis had been hoping to play Port Atkinson, but the latter canceled, and arrangements had to be made. Because of the large number of Wisconsin university supporters from here who are planning to be at the Minnesota game at Madison, Saturday afternoon, Curtis agreed to play the game in the morning.

Janesville is determined to come back after the Beloit defeat, and try to defeat all other contestants which they will meet on the gridiron this season. Stoughton, Monroe and possibly two other eleven in addition to Jefferson will meet the locals. Edgerton defeated Jefferson, 39 to 0. Janesville should trim Jefferson by a good margin.

This game is the first one to be played here this year. Monroe and Stoughton will both play here.

FAIRYLAND PLAY IS SEEN AT THE MYERS

"Tik Tok Man of Oz" a Well Staged Spectacle—People With Fantastic Characters.

Saturday evening "The Tik Tok Man of Oz" appeared at the Myers Theatre, delighting an audience that filled the playhouse. The story, the play and the characters, an attractive chorus and elaborately staged, it proved one of the best offerings of many seasons. It has an impossible plot, with impossible situations. The production went from Janesville to the Davidson Theatre, Milwaukee, and Louise F. Brand, dramatic critic on the Milwaukee Sentinel, and a former Janesville newspaper writer, comments on it in the following manner: "It is as if the play indicates and as any one familiar with the name of its author, L. Frank Baum, knows, a fairyland extravaganza in which flowers, animals, princesses and many strange characters take part to the delight of young and old. The royal gardens of the rose kingdom, the summer rain scene with its rainbow, the home of the field flowers and the underground cavern and metal forest of the metal monarch give scenic interest and variety to the production. The producer, has taken full advantage, the result being a series of artistic stage settings. The music of Louis F. Gottschalk has quality as well as catchiness, and the production is a high class one, although the costumes needs replenishing."

The big individual hits of the performance are scored by Charlotte Greenwood as Queen Ann Soforth of Oogaboob, by Sidney Grant as her private army, and by Fred Woodward as the pet mule, Hank. James C. Morton and Frank F. Moore have the leading comedy parts of the Tik Tok Man and the Shaggy Man, but are hampered by the fact that they are forced to follow Montgomery and Stone in parts which closely resemble the Scarecrow and the Tin Man in "The Wizard of Oz," predecessor of the present production. Morton and Moore, who have been seen in vaudeville, are most successful as entertainers in the Oz play when they rely on their vaudeville material, their dancing and their bird whistling. Mr. Morton takes some clever and grotesque falls, but they are the only particularly amusing feature of his characterization. The bird whistling controversy and the "So Do I" dance bring deserved encores for the men. Charlotte Greenwood and Sidney Grant have also been seen here in vaudeville, though not together, their alliance having been formed after Miss Greenwood's grotesque kick made her a Broadway sensation. She is the biggest laugh getter in "The Tik Tok Man of Oz," and it is to be regretted that the play itself does not make more generous provision for her. Much of her work is interpolated vaudeville, even her "girlish laughter" long being retained. Miss Greenwood with her long swinging arms and legs, her air of comradeship, her jolly naturalness and her strange combination of grace and awkwardness, of person and grotesque, and grotesque distortion of face and form, is a unique figure on the stage. She is a born clown and she is screamingly funny.

Mr. Grant appears as the army of Oogaboob, under the command of sixteen officers. He plays with the same distinction, the same refinement and the same stage sense, and it is a comedy values which marked his work in vaudeville. His personality and his smile are genuine assets.

Fred Woodward's mule deserves to rank with the best animal characterizations of the stage. There is real comedy in its every move and its dances are particularly clever when one realizes that Mr. Woodward does them on all fours. "Hank" and Miss Greenwood's Queen Ann are the funniest things in the show.

Gipsy Dale as the Princess Ozma sings brightly and melodiously and Dottie Castles also has some pleasing vocal numbers, although it is her graceful dancing, which wins special favor. Lenora Novacic looks the part of the child Betsy, but does not win any special attention in the part. John Dunsmore as the metal monarch finds occasion for the display of a deep bass voice, but one wishes that the anvils used in the anvil chorus were more musical. The chorus is a large and comely one which appears in a number of spirited ensembles. One of the real pleasures of the performance is the work of the large orchestra under the direction of Victor Schott zinger.

SPORT Snap-Shots

If the Athletics take a trip south next spring at the training season it will be more in the nature of a little pleasure jaunt than a hard working effort to take off fat and get into shape for the season of 1914. From the manner in which most of the Athletics plan to spend their winters they will need very little working out when the apple blossoms bloom again. As soon as the world's champs received their checks for the job they did in the recent encounter the most of them prepared to leave for a winter of hunting in the great outdoors. They are going to spend their winters with the gun, bagging the ubiquitous quail and other birds and beasts of the jungle. Hunting, next to playing ball, is the favorite pursuit of most of the world's champs, and being out in the open is at all times their notion of having a good time. It's little wonder that the

Mackmen are the players they are, and it's still less wonder that they trimmed the Giants, the most of whom when business hours are over prefer outdoor recreation. In fact, it more ball players spent their time as the Athletics do off the diamond, there would be more world's champs, so to speak.

After being relegated to the wood pile for quite a few seasons, the old-fashioned "charging machine" are coming once more into widespread favor in gridiron practice. The charging machine, reader, is a device with a wooden frame and so constructed that it offers quite a little resistance to the candidates for the line who place their shoulders against a padded portion of it and make a real hefty effort to push it off the premises. As the thing weighs a couple of tons, it provides an excellent means of cultivating the ability to charge the enemy's line and break up the plans of their backs. For more than several seasons they have been out of use. The lines in signal practice would try forward a few steps, when a play was called and that's about all the charging practice the line underwent. And when they faced real opposition they found themselves weak at the charge. Harvard is using the charging machine extensively and getting great results. They push the thing all over the lot and they'll probably be able to treat their opponents this fall in the same manner.

Northwestern university is pleading with President Wilson to help the bolsters up their eleven. At any rate that's what it amounts to substantially, and if Wilson seems willing to do them the favor Northwestern will have a faster team. Carroll Dwight Hale, a student at Northwestern, is also a member of the government life saving crew at Evanston. He is heavy and fast and an experienced player, but his job at life saving keeps him so busy that he is unable to practice with the team. Northwestern after a defeat at the hands of Illinois not so long ago was desperate and it was then that Hale offered his services if he could be freed for the nonce from the government job. Coach Grady was elated at Hale's offer and immediately an appeal was sent to Woodrow urging him to see that Hale was released from his life saving duties that he might appear in the Northwestern gridiron. Should Hale leave the life saving station without the president's permission he would be thrown into the battle and none of the Northwestern students would care to see that happen. So they have dropped Wilson a postcard about it.

GOOD PLAYING BEATS JANESVILLE HIGHS AFTER HARD CONTEST

Star Line Plunging by Connell

Quenches Janesville's Hopes—Dalton is Star of Locals—Score 25 to 0.

Sledge hammer attacks upon a weakened line coupled with the irresistible line plunging of a sorrel topped tackle and full back with the goal when the quarter ended. Near the last of the game the Beloiters sent the ball from Janesville's territory to the twenty yard line by a perfect shoestring play, the forward pass going from the middle of the field to the side line. Connell tore through the line to the goal but time saved Janesville from another touchdown.

Summary.
Janesville—Smiley, 1. e.; Hemming, 1. t.; Badger, and McCulloch, 1. g.; Mout, c. Jones, r. g.; McVicar, r. t.; Stewart, r. e.; Atwood, 1. h.; Dearborn, r. h.; Dalton, 1. b.
Beloit—Walsh, 1. e.; D. R. Connell, 1. t.; Sprattler, 1. g.; Van Lone, c.; Sundgren, r. g.; Kunk, r. t.; Phillips, r. e.; Richardson, c. b.; A. Connell, 1. h.; Gardner, r. h.; Bean, 1. b.
Referee, Charrity; Ump, Cook.
Touchdowns, Connell, 2; Gardner, 1; Richardson, 1.
Beloit held a big celebration that night over their victory. Football spirit ran wild. They have a right to, for a victory after five long years' defeat with scores of 29 to 0 and 43 to 5 against them the local school should not begrudge them a victory, once in a while.

Basket ball season is coming and Beloit will do as she has done in the past, go down in defeat in this game. Charrity, the referee, was the squares official that this year. He has played under this year. He allowed no slugging and even gave Janesville a slight advantage.

Both sides of the field was lined with blockers and Beloit did not drown the Janesville chieftains shyly led by Raymond "Butter" Barnes.

They certainly do appreciate a victory at Beloit over Janesville, but this is explained by the fact that victory comes to them at few and far apart intervals. Absence makes the heart grow fonder.

Atwood booted in great style Saturday, being forced to get the ball off with Beloiters coming through line five strong to block him.

Every one on the field had their respects for Dalton and the Beloit tackles were not over anxious to get in the way of his head. When he could not go through them he went over them.

Beloit college rooters wore a sad face after the game when they heard Lawrence put a crimp into their hopes. Press agents had led them to believe Beloit had a walk away.

There was plenty of fumbling in the game by both sides and Janesville had her share of lucky breaks in being the lucky one to fall on the ball.

The way the blue eleven played in the second quarter it looked like a sure bet Janesville would score. Hayes was running his team great and the locals had no trouble in making their downs.

Port Atkinson will probably be next, playing here in the coming Saturday. Since new methods have governed the football there, their team has taken a decided slump and no more five year men are allowed and no "ringers." Janesville should win this game if they play the caliber as they did at Beloit.

Beloit has a well balanced team showing good coaching and should trim any team in Southern Wisconsin with ease. Their backfield is composed of good heavy men, sure plungers and good at following the interference. On short end runs, they presented a wedge interference that was like a steam roller. Connell was a most remarkable player for a high team, having a world of strength that enabled him to plow through the wings of Janesville at almost every try. He would shake off two or three men before he could be brought down to the ground. Both teams played to the good old style of hammer football, and only uncorked a few forward passes. Beloit worked several fake smashes and scored one of their touchdowns on a fake end run. The locals fought with all the ability they had for the first time in five years had a better eleven than did Janesville.

Beloit kicked to Dalton, who advanced the ball twenty yards before being downed. His stiff arm kept off three of the ambitious tacklers from Beloit. After two line plunges Janesville was penalized for using Beloit roughly and Atwood booted to the twenty yard mark. Beloit started a steady line down the field, helped by a twenty yard run by Gardner and a pretty forward pass. They marched down the gridiron, both teams playing even. Dearborn showed up great during this period, ripping through Beloit for counting gains. With the quarter almost up Atwood tried a drop from the forty yard line, and the ball was a foot too low although the kick was a peach.

Having tasted blood, Beloit came back strong in the second half after a gingerling lecture by Coach Wickham and stamped Janesville's hopes with two touchdowns. Connell was guilty of one and Richardson scored the other one on a fake and buck. Beloit's wedge interference was great in this period and brainy tricks enabled them to play around the blue and white eleven.

A tumble gave Beloit the ball on fifty yard line and Beloit by substantial gains marched the ball down the field but a bad fumble gave the ball to the locals. The ball zigzagged down the gridiron, both teams playing even. Dearborn showed up great during this period, ripping through Beloit for counting gains. With the quarter almost up Atwood tried a drop from the forty yard line, and the ball was a foot too low although the kick was a peach.

SURPRISES SPRUNG IN FOOTBALL WORLD BY SMALL COLLEGES

Big surprises were given the football fans in Saturday's games, and eleven that were picked as sure winners went down in defeat before smaller and supposedly weaker teams. The biggest was when the Michigan Aggies, jolted Wisconsin, the conference champions, by a 12 to 7 score. The Badgers played very erratically against their sturdy opponents who have a wonderful aggregation of football men. Right at the start of the second quarter a sterling end run of twenty yards by Miller sent the first score across the Badger goal. The Wisconsin men seemed to lose their heads and Michigan scored their final touchdown by blocking a punt and falling on the ball behind the goal.

In the second half Wisconsin picked up and by a series of forward passes, interspersed with timely runs by Torrey and the giant Van Gent, finally landed the ball on the two yard line where Tandberg pushed it over.

Chicago showed her championship class when their star little quarterback, Russell, booted two goals, trimming the formidable Purdue eleven 8 to 6. The Chicagoans kept Purdue's hope, Oliphant, under cover.

This places the Maroons in direct line for the title and indications point towards Stagg's men copping the honor.

Beloit Game.
Beloit, a strong eleven, met a stone wall against Catlin's Lawrence team and Beloit's sure victory turned out to be a bad trimming. The much-vaunted state line team had no show and were completely baffled by the speed of the Lawrence team, and only five times during the game made their downs. Lawrence was the aggressor throughout and after eleven minutes of play in the second quarter marched the ball down the field, when W. Tippe, a former Janesville high school boy, took a forward pass from Sylvester over the black and gold goal. Sylvester booted a perfect drop in the last quarter from the 55 yard line, downing Beloit by a 9 to 0 score.

In the East.
Harvard, by her easy victory over Penn. State by 29 to 0, on a muddy field, that showed up their playing, looks good to win the world title with ease as Yale has showed little form, and were held to a 0 to 0 tie score with Washington and Jefferson and were lucky that they were not beaten.

High School Title.
With no southern Wisconsin team strong enough to make a showing against the northern high school for the championship of the state. Sparta looks good to make a showing for the honor, with La Crosse, Eau Claire and Madison scrambling for the title. Oshkosh, last year's title-holders, slipped when Sparta held them to a tie early in the season.

SMOKING THEM OUT.

When the banking and currency bill was introduced into congress, there were good reasons why it should not be made merely a frank attack upon property. It was originally made up of provisions adapted from the Aldrich bill, married in the stealing, together with a number of drastic clauses supposed to be aimed at the alleged "money trust" of the Pulo investigation. The theory openly expressed was that all the country would support the bill, in order to divert business from wicked Wall street.

But the bankers of the large cities, and especially the reserve cities, at once condemned the same provisions in the bill that had created alarm in the country's financial center. Such men as Morgan, Reynolds, or Sol Wexler were manifestly not under the thumb of any money trust. The friends of the people were driven to their second line of defense. They charged conspiracy between Wall street and the great cities, and appealed with confidence to the country banker.

But the country bankers repudiated the bill, practically unanimously. They recognized the valuable features; they would have no Bryanism or corn tassel currency, to say nothing of control in the interest of party politics. The country banker was speaking, moreover, not only for his depositors, but his borrowers; because most depositors borrow, and the maker of a loan simply has the amount transferred to the credit of his deposit account. A retreat to the third line of defense was necessary, and a charge of conspiracy against the entire banking and financial interests of the country, great and small, was made. It was received with a roar of laughter, from one end of the country to the other, and was instantly abandoned by the newspaper supporters of the bill.

It will be seen that by these successive steps the friends of the people have been smoked out. The "money trust" argument was first abandoned. All that remains now is to claim that the bill offers something to those who have not, out of the pockets of those who have. This should be made clear in every congressional district of the country, if the country is to be governed at the expense of every man with a few dollars in the savings bank, or the capitalist to run his store or his farm, for the sole benefit of those who possess neither thrift, capacity, industry, nor intelligence—nothing, in fact, but votes.

Here, then, is the issue. Any student of the financial history of his country knows that stamping values on a piece of paper was ever the populist idea of giving something for nothing to those who have earned nothing. It would be complimentary to call the bill a socialistic. In practice, it would ultimately reduce all classes to one common level of indistinguishable ruin.

The Wall Street Journal thus clearly analyzes the status of currency legislation now engaging the attention of our public servants at the national capitol. If private capital was seeking banking investment, it would be slow to place itself in the hands of a theorist like President Wilson or his visionary adviser, Secretary Bryan, and yet these two men are the power behind the throne, which today attempts to dictate how the great national banking system shall be administered. The whole thing is a gigantic farce, and currency legislation can afford to go slow.

CAUSTIC COMMENTS.

It is not strange that in the stress of the present Mexican situation the European papers are growing admirably reminiscent of the deficits and positive foreign policy of the old and tried firms of McKinley and Hay, and Roosevelt and Root. Mexico can not be governed by a rosewater policy and Messrs. Bryan and Wilson's timid and temporizing policy has disgusted the press on the other side of the "big puddle." Moral pressure and pedagogical finger-shaking may be all right at Princeton, but when it comes to scaring the uneducated Mexican patriot it is a failure. The Mexican situation can not be met with the same procedure as one does in addressing a chauntanque presiding over a faculty meeting, and the sooner this fact is realized the better it will be for the United States. The election Sunday turned out just as was expected. No election. Huerta still reigns. Diaz has resigned from the army, the rebels hold several strategic points and the warships in the harbors of Mexico still float with their storm anchor buoyed. It would be the biggest mistake in the world to recognize Huerta and his regime now. It was the greatest mistake in the world not to have done so in the first place, and really the only thing left to do is to permit the Mexican rebels to fight it out and drive Huerta from the country if they can. Investors in Mexican rubber plantations, in Mexican mines and other industries, will lose thousands of dollars by this dictatorial policy being enacted at Washington, but it is too late to cry over spilled milk or lock the barn door after the horse is stolen. When the solution of this Mexican problem is reached it will be found that the boasted supremacy of the United States over the American continent is just a catch phrase and that England has really done the work.

There is nothing remarkable in the fact that Sulzer looks like Clay. He is made of it.

CHURCH ADVERTISING.

"Here's a novel advertisement which recently appeared in a local Rhode Island paper:

The Rev. Frank H. Ebricht, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Whitestone, L. I., believes that advertising is as necessary in church work as in business. His views on advertising were shown in this advertisement which appeared today in the Whitestone Herald:

"Stolen, Strayed, Lost or Misplaced:—Missing—Last Sunday, many families from church.

"Stolen—Several hours from the Lords day by a great number of people.

"Strayed—Half a hundred lambs; went in the direction of no Sunday school.

"Misplaced—A quantity of silver coins owed to the Lord.

"Wanted—Scores of young people. When last seen were walking up 'Sabbath Breakers' lane, which leads to 'No Good.'

"Lost—A lad carefully reared. Not long from home. Supposed to have gone to Huxley lane, Prodigal town.

"Any person assisting in the discovery of the above shall in no wise lose his reward.

"Whitestone M. E. church. Get the habit."

The currency bill will pass this session. Why? Because "Colliers" says so, and Collier hasn't made a false prediction in half a dozen years, which is also true, because Collier says so. What would the nation do without the great national predictor? Ask us something easy.

The committee of the Twenty-five Thousand club are in Rockford this afternoon to take up the question of better cars and more efficient service for the patrons of the Janesville street cars. It is to be hoped they will succeed. Janesville needs a boost in this direction if it is possible to secure it.

Reloit high school authorities have decided to abandon the annual class play at graduation for the simple reason: "It takes too much of the pupils' time to prepare for it." This is a good reason and one which might well be considered in Janesville.

It is rumored that some of the mothers of the city are going to take radical steps to have the tango barred from dances at which the younger generation attend during the coming winter.

Now it is apparent that everything Julian Hawthorne says about prisons is true. A New York convict has asked for a pardon in order that he may marry a widow.

Mothers are no longer permitted to teach in the New York schools. Which means that more New York fathers will have to work for a living.

Having relieved his mind fully, there is perhaps some hope that former Ambassador Wilson will now consider himself a closed incident.

The New York legislature might partially retrieve itself and fill an obvious want by appointing a committee to feel sorry for Sulzer.

Senor Huerta's threat to set the Monroe doctrine aside comes near being the one best scream since King Canute told the sea to back up.

The department of agriculture has come out in defense of the crow. Is the administration already getting ready to put it in the menu?

Seems as though the first thing Governor Foss does every morning is to flip up a penny to see what party he will belong to during the day.

Senor Huerta seems anxious to hasten the day when the United States will no longer be content to "view with displeasure."

One can't help wondering what would be happening about now to Mr. Huerta if Colonel Roosevelt were in the White House.

An even more ingratulating campaign expedient would be to suspend the penny-deposit system until after election.

Somebody, about now, ought to refer to Dictator Huerta that "touching little ballad," "Don't Monkey With the Buzz Saw."

Huerta and Diaz are a good pair to draw to, as President Wilson may discover to his embarrassment.

What is going on in Mexico can hardly be called war. Yet it is what General Sherman said war was.

Talking about women's rights, that Vassar girl who threw a baseball 205 feet has a good one.

Among those who are not worrying about the new tariff is the man who won't work.

On the Spur of the Moment

The Officials.
Who gets down to the office late, And then presides in gorgeous state, And makes the prodigious callers wait?
The President

Who wears a diamond in his shirt That makes the very optics hurt? Who always is abrupt and curt?
The general manager.

Who makes you feel like thirty cents When you would ride without expense?
Who has a turnover that's immense?
The general passenger agent.

Who bores you through with haughty stare, When you would travel anywhere And grabs the money for your fare?
The ticket agent.

Who takes your ticket with disdain And freezes you with might and main For daring to get on his train?
The conductor.

Who seems ashamed to take your grip? Whose dignity will never slip,

But who will never miss a tip?
The porter.

Who is the shabby old galoot Who wears a fourteen-dollar suit And greets you with a kind salutation?
Oh! that's only the old duffer who owns the railroad. That's all.

A Mystery Story by Vitagraph

The Diary of the Bonehead.
The other day, in an unguarded moment, I accepted an invitation to ride home with an automobile salesman in a new 1914 car. It was a beautiful car and the ride home was pleasant, but I noticed that we were being eyed curiously by several gentlemen who passed on, driving new 1914 cars.

The next morning when I got to my office I found five automobile salesmen waiting for me and before the morning was over seven more had called. Each had stated the merits of his particular car and asked me and my family to go riding.

Automobile gossip travels fast. When I got home I found nine new cars lined up in front of my house and nine salesmen whom I had never seen before were sitting on my front porch discussing the relative merits of their cars. In vain did I tell them that I didn't want to buy a new car. I had been seen riding with an automobile salesman. That was enough.

Since then I have ridden in forty-seven cars and my head is so full of differentials, self-starters and two-speed axles that I cannot attend to the details of my business. I wake up in the night talking about transmissions and spark plugs.

One of those gentlemen is going to wish one of those cars on me before I get through. I have nine dates for today and fifteen for tomorrow and there is no escape. I must buy one to get rid of the rest.

Moral: Never go riding with an automobile salesman. Walking is cheaper.

An Incorrect Diagnosis.
An old rustic, bent and painfully limping, was accosted by a friend who inquired:

"Hello, Zeb, what's ailin' of ye?"

"Got a big corn between my toes," said Zeb, "and it hurts something awful."

"Lemme see it. Maybe I kin do it some good?"

"No use! Joe. It's been that way six weeks."

Slowly and tenderly the old man removed his boot.

"Great gawd, man," the friend exclaimed, "how long did you say you had been suffering?"

"Just about six weeks, Joe."

"That ain't any corn," said Joe. "It's a collar button."

OUTLINE NEEDS FOR BETTER CAR SERVICE

Committee of Twenty-five Thousand Club Confers With Manager Sparks at Rockford

Today, Walter S. Rice, A. F. Knuth, J. W. Van Bynum, P. S. Peterson and S. M. Jacobs, members of a committee of the Twenty-five Thousand club, delegated to take up the matter of improved street car service for Janesville with the Rockford management, went to Rockford this afternoon to hold a conference with Manager Sparks.

It was the unanimous opinion of the club after a thorough discussion not only that the present service could be vastly improved with a slight outlay, but that the company would benefit by the improvement by securing larger financial returns, that the citizens would be satisfied with better service which would increase patronage, and that the city would advance a step toward the 25,000 population goal.

Four propositions have been outlined by the committee and were presented to Mr. Sparks for his study and consideration this afternoon. They deal with improvement possibilities, which, if secured, are calculated to give Janesville a modern trolley car system on a par with that of any system in any city of Janesville's size. The recommendations are:

First, better and higher class employees.

Second, better and more up-to-date cars and equipment.

Third, better schedule of service in the evening. We think it advisable to make the last run at 10:30 instead of 9:30 in order to give persons coming from the theatres and other entertainments, a chance to ride home.

Fourth, to arrange for the inter-urban making the city hall and depot look as lovely instead of stopping at the Myers hotel.

It is possible that the matter of extensions of the city line may be discussed.

How "Teetotaler" Originated.
Teetotaler, the term applied to an abstainer from all fermented liquors, originated with Richard Turner, an artisan of Preston, England, who, contending for the principle at a temperance meeting in 1833, asserted that "Nothing but te-te-total will do." The word was immediately adopted.

Intense interest is aroused in the exciting drama of adventure called, "The Mystery of the Silver Skull," which is the special feature announced for tomorrow at the Lyric.

Billy Steele, a young man of wealth comes to the United States on business. He lands from his own yacht and starts towards the office of Henry Lawlor, a timber magnate. On his way he meets a girl who immediately attracts his attention. Not only is he interested on account of her great beauty but also because of a peculiar expression of pain and torment upon her face. He stops and looks at her intently then goes on to the office. Concluding his business, he leaves with the lumber magnate, parting with him at the street. After going a short distance, Steele discovers that he has left his wallet upon Lawlor's desk. He returns to the office. When he steps into the room he is startled by seeing someone bending down before the safe. He is completely taken back when the person suddenly turns towards him and he sees that it is the beautiful girl he met on the street. She levels her revolver at him, then hurriedly goes on with her search, finally picking out some papers which she seemed anxious to find. Getting his chance, Steele wrenches the revolver from her and forces her to return the papers. She pleads pathetically, but Steele, though mystified and longing to grant her wish, will not let her have them. Steele now happens to look down and sees a silver skull and cross bones on the floor. He picks it up. Just then the elevator door is heard to slam. Both hurry from the room. It is Lawlor returning. Steele greets him and the girl disappears. Leaving Lawlor, he gets a taxi-cab and hastens after Josephine, the lovely burglar. He sees her enter a certain house, the number of which he writes down, then he goes to a drug store and gets her full name from a city directory.

Billy Steele reads in the paper that Josephine is engaged to Lawlor. This almost breaks his heart as he has become desperately in love with the beautiful, mysterious girl. He is greatly surprised that she should pick out a man as old as Lawlor for her husband, he being old enough to be her grandfather. Wishing to know more about the safe incident, he goes to the girl's house. When she sees him she shows signs of great fear, but she reassures her, and she tells him that she is marrying Lawlor to save her father from being denounced as a murderer, the proof of which is in the papers the magnate holds. Lawlor comes in and Steele hides behind a screen. Josephine and her father plead with Lawlor, who is cruel and relentless. Suddenly, O'Keefe, the captain of Billy's yacht comes in and thrusts the silver skull before Lawlor, who cowers back in terror. O'Keefe tells a story of murder in which Lawlor was the criminal at which he'd been an eye witness. Lawlor had bribed O'Keefe. Lawlor had bribed O'Keefe to keep silent. The silver skull had been taken from the dead man by Lawlor as a souvenir and O'Keefe had seen him take it.

Now the tables are turned. Lawlor goes to prison, and Steele wins the love of beautiful Josephine Gray, who becomes his wife and goes with him on a long honeymoon trip on his yacht to the Honduras.

The Cotton Country

A planter who grows cotton stated recently that he was not interested in any other crop, as on his plantation he grew nothing but cotton. That planter was very short sighted because when he sold his cotton he bought corn for his live stock, wheat in the shape of flour for his larder, and wool in the shape of clothing for his family, etc. He really should be as much interested in the corn crop, the wheat crop and the wool crop as he was in the cotton crop. Every farmer is interested in every crop produced in the total production and in the relative values.

WOMAN DROPS DEAD WHILE SHE ATTENDS FUNERAL OF FRIEND

Mrs. Eleanor Pellay, Widow of Late H. H. Pellay, Suddenly Passes Away in St. Patrick's Church.

Suddenly stricken with heart failure, Mrs. Eleanor Pellay, widow of the late Harry H. Pellay, dropped dead at St. Patrick's church about 9:30 o'clock this morning while attending the funeral services of an old friend, Miss Ellen Rosch. She sat alone in the pew which she occupied and without warning collapsed and fell forward between the pews. Several seated near her rushed to her assistance and attempted to resuscitate her, but their efforts were unavailing and she breathed her last just as she was being borne out of the church door.

Mrs. Pellay was believed to be in very good health up to the time of her death. She had been attending the meeting of Rebekah Lodge No. 26, of which she was a member, and yesterday took dinner and supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nelson, having at nine o'clock. She resided in the Fredendall flats near the corner of Court and South Main streets, having made her home there since last March.

The departed was born on a farm near Syracuse, New York, state, on September 25, 1847, making her age, six years at the time of her death. A peculiar coincidence is that her husband was born on the very same day and they were both married in August, 1865, at the age of eighteen years. They came to Wisconsin immediately after their marriage, taking up their residence in Rock county. Mr. Pellay followed the occupation of a butcher and stock raiser, later settling in a small town, of Harmony. Mr. Pellay died in this city a year ago last May, following an operation.

No children survive Mrs. Pellay, and there are no near relatives living in this vicinity. She was a niece of James Schuyler, who years ago was proprietor of the Park hotel, and a cousin, Willard Schuyler, lives at Lake Mills. A brother-in-law resides in Iowa, and two nieces in Alhambra, California.

Funeral arrangements will not be perfected until the known relatives are notified of the death. The remains of Mrs. Pellay have been removed to the home of Mr. Harry Van Gilder on Milton avenue.

Seniors to Attend: The members of the senior class of the high school, composed of at least seventy members, were adjourned at three o'clock this afternoon from school work to be allowed the privilege of attending a lecture at library hall. The speaker was Prof. Pyre of the Wisconsin university. His topic was: "Rice of Drama." The lecture was given under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club of this city.

Dance Saturday Evening: The next dancing party at the Mississippi Golf club will be held on Saturday evening instead of Tuesday evening, as was previously announced.

Passes Examinations: Leon R. Schleuter of this city was among the list of those who successfully passed the tests for registered assistant pharmacists held by the state board recently.

Attention K. of P.: Regular meeting of Oriental Lodge No. 22, K. of P., this evening.

Horse Theft: D. P. Gahan, chief of police at Elgin, reports to the local police of the theft of a seventeen year old mare weighing from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds from a barn, 951 Cooks avenue, Elgin, on the night of October 23. The animal had a brass bark wire cut on the left hind leg. The thief rode horse back.

Making Inspections: Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein has been making building inspections at the direction of the state during his spare time the last three weeks and gave the entire afternoon of October 26 to the inspection of the city hall. He receives no compensation for this labor although it necessitates a great deal of time and effort.

Marriage License: County Clerk Howard Lee this morning granted a marriage license to Tony Gialoni and Frances Barber, both of Beloit.

Will Pay Fine: A brother of Myers Barrett, the dining car waiter sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or six months' imprisonment, was in the city yesterday and assured Sheriff Whipple that the fine would be paid either today or tomorrow.

Tuberculosis Lecture: The program tonight at the Modern Woodmen hall in the Phoenix block promises to be of interest. In addition to the lecture, "Tuberculosis and M. W. of A. Sanitarium," by Mr. J. F. Harris of Chicago, there will be many other interesting numbers. It may begin at eight o'clock and the entire public is invited.

SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS DAMAGES ARE AWARDED

Damages in the sum of seventy-five cents and costs amounting to $24.45 were awarded by Judge Maxfield of the municipal court in the case of Josephine Capman versus Charles Shimeal, both of the town of Turtle. Shimeal took possession of two cows belonging to Mrs. Capman because, he alleged, they were on the public highway and eating under the fence on his land. Mrs. Capman brought suit for replevin and was able to prove that the cows did not eat under Mr. Shimeal's fence. The damages are to be paid to the cows for the length of time they were held by Mr. Shimeal.

SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS DAMAGES ARE AWARDED

Damages in the sum of seventy-five cents and costs amounting to $24.45 were awarded by Judge Maxfield of the municipal court in the case of Josephine Capman versus Charles Shimeal, both of the town of Turtle. Shimeal took possession of two cows belonging to Mrs. Capman because, he alleged, they were on the public highway and eating under the fence on his land. Mrs. Capman brought suit for replevin and was able to prove that the cows did not eat under Mr. Shimeal's fence. The damages are to be paid to the cows for the length of time they were held by Mr. Shimeal.

DISCUSS PROPOSAL FOR A FARM EXPERT

Commercial Club Committee Reports Result of Efforts in This Direction—Banks May Pledge Thousand Dollars.

The Commercial club directors' meeting at the Myers hotel this noon was presided over by Vice-president Geo. S. Parker, and the report of the committee appointed last week to investigate the matter of securing a county agricultural superintendent was called for. F. H. Jackson stated that letters containing petitions to the county board had been sent to all the banks in the county asking that signatures of farmers be secured approving the plan and to be presented to the county board. He asked that the committee be authorized to guarantee the $1,000 per year for two years necessary to secure the county agricultural superintendent in connection with the amount which the county board will be asked to appropriate. This together with the state fund would assure the superintendent for Rock county.

Noyes R. R. Beloit, who has had much to do with expert agricultural matters, was the guest of the directors and spoke at some length on the advantages to the county under the superintendency plan. He reviewed various phases of the subject briefly and said that the experience of those counties operating the agricultural superintendent was to increase the crop production 25 per cent. He stated that Rock county was well thought of at the agricultural department in Madison because of her progressive spirit in these matters and as but ten counties could receive the consideration of this state on the agricultural superintendent for 1914 it is necessary to make complete arrangements at once.

Secretary F. E. Lane goes to Milwaukee tomorrow to attend the state meeting of commercial secretaries.

STOUGHTON CONTEST RESULTS IN A TIE

Edgerton Eleven Puts Up Valiant Fight But Is Unable to Score.

Edgerton, Oct. 27.—The game of football played at Stoughton Saturday between Edgerton and Stoughton, which ended in a scoreless tie game, much honor to both teams. Center Dave was suspended from the game in the second half and G. Ogden was put in his place. Stoughton, which is a much heavier and faster team than Edgerton, was held in pretty close by our team after the first quarter. In the first quarter Stoughton got within 10 yards of the goal, but the Edgerton line which was like a stone wall recovered the ball on a fumble and at the end of the first half the ball was in the middle of the field. Edgerton then kicked off to Stoughton, who was unable to gain. The running of Whitford and the tackling of Charles McIntosh were the starting features of the game. Edgerton advanced the ball on the last quarter within three yards of the goal but lost it on account of a fumble when there was one minute left of play.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping. When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given. Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

The non-opening of the Panama canal, but by the existence of the Suez canal, but if the Americans will have an advantage in their nearness to the markets of the west coast of South America and Australia, foreign ships will carry the imports and exports of the United States under conditions now existing continue. Thus, the commission finds, if Europe does not benefit commercially by the opening of the canal, certain nations possess a powerful mercantile marine, such as England and Germany, will have an important part in the economic conquest of the Pacific by the Americans.

The French colonies in the West Indies, the commission avers, are too far out of the track of commerce to count upon any great increase in traffic. Therefore, the commission does not recommend large expenditures on harbor improvements. In Oceania, the commissioners found that practically all ships going through the canal to Australia and New Zealand will necessarily call at Tahiti, and recommend the expenditure of the equivalent of $1,400,000 on the improvement of Papeete harbor. Light-houses should be built, the channel deepened and a proper coaling station constructed.

The commission does not believe it necessary to make extensive arrangements for coaling at Papeete, because, in its opinion and that of the principal French shipowners consulted by the commission, the expense of coaling for ships will entirely supersede the steam engine within from fifteen to twenty-five years. While the passage of so many ships cannot fail to benefit the colonies in Oceania, the commission is not optimistic. The scarcity of labor will retard expansion. Cheaper freights, however, will enable such products as coconut fibre, plentiful in the colonies there and much in demand in Europe, to be profitably exported.

M. David-Mennet, the president of the Paris chamber of commerce, has made a study of the effect on French trade of the opening of the Panama canal, and in talking of the subject to the Associated Press correspondent said:

"I do not think that French manufacturers expect much immediate change in the exports of France. The principal advantages, as we look up on them, will go to the United States, and next after the United States, to England."

"The canal will open up trade with the west coast of North and South America. The exports of France are largely fine fabrics and other articles of taste and luxury. The considerable trade which we already have with the western coast of the Americas will increase with the development of those countries. We cannot help but profit in the future. But I fear that England and other countries of Europe are better organized for sea traffic with the western coast of the Americas than is France."

"France does not offer the heavy freights which encourage the increase not only in the number of American lines, but in the class of ships which carry heavy freights and which form such a material adjunct to the merchant marine of England."

"Of course, the Panama canal will develop the trade of China, Australia and the Indies. The easier access to the enormous Chinese markets will not immediately benefit France. We have allowed ourselves to be outdistanced by England, and the requirements in those markets have not been of the kind that especially encourages French manufacturers. The textiles so largely shipped from England and the United States to China are far coarser and are made in much larger quantities than the fabrics we produce in France. We make a specialty of finer articles such as are not manufactured in enormous quantities."

"As the taste of the Chinese people becomes Europeanized, they will find that France can better supply them with finer goods than other countries. In this way, France will benefit in the far East in the future more than immediately after the opening of the Panama canal."

The Suez canal, created by a French enterprise, has its head offices in Paris. A study has been made of the probable effect of the opening of the Panama canal. The expectation is that the tonnage passing through the Suez canal will not be reduced by more than five to eight per cent. This reduction will almost certainly be made up within three or four years, possibly in less time by the natural expansion of the Suez canal traffic. The best relations have already been established between the officials of the Suez canal and those of the Panama canal. Prof. Emory Johnson, the American commissioner, was in consultation with the Suez canal management during the early half of September, and it is understood that he will report in favor of using in Panama exactly the same rules of tonnage measurement as are now used in the Suez canal. It had been expected by the Suez people that the American tonnage charges, although nominally precisely the same as the Suez—$1 20 per ton—were in reality, owing to the difference in American measurements, three per cent less.

"Co-operation rather than competition is the key word of the relationship between the two canals," said M. Max Bertrand, the general secretary of the Suez canal company. "We occupy two different spheres and all two independent needs. The greatest cordiality exists between the governors of the two waterways."

The French officials of Panama's rival waterway praised eloquently the methods which have been employed in executing the gigantic engineering task, but he preferred not to discuss the effect upon the trade of the Suez. M. Jourant, the director-general of the Suez canal, said at the annual meeting of the shareholders recently that the revenues of the company would not be much diminished by the opening of the Panama canal.

Not Her Fault.

"Ellen, I'm tired of your neglect and carelessness. Just look at all that dust lying about on the furniture. It's six weeks old at the very least." "Then it's no fault of mine. You know very well, ma'am, that I've been with you only four weeks."—Harper's Magazine.

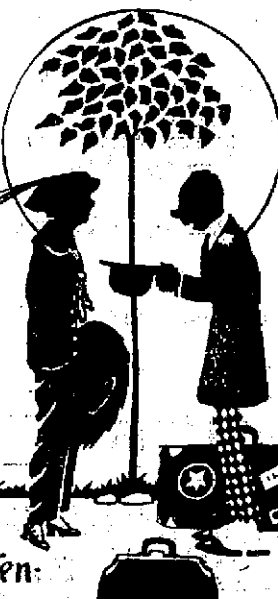

All or None.

"I've come to ask you for your daughter's hand," faltered the young man, scratching his off shin with his right foot. "Can't have it!" snapped the stern parent. "I ain't in the installment business. When you can support the entire girl, then you can have her."

AMUSEMENTS

"WITHIN THE LAW."

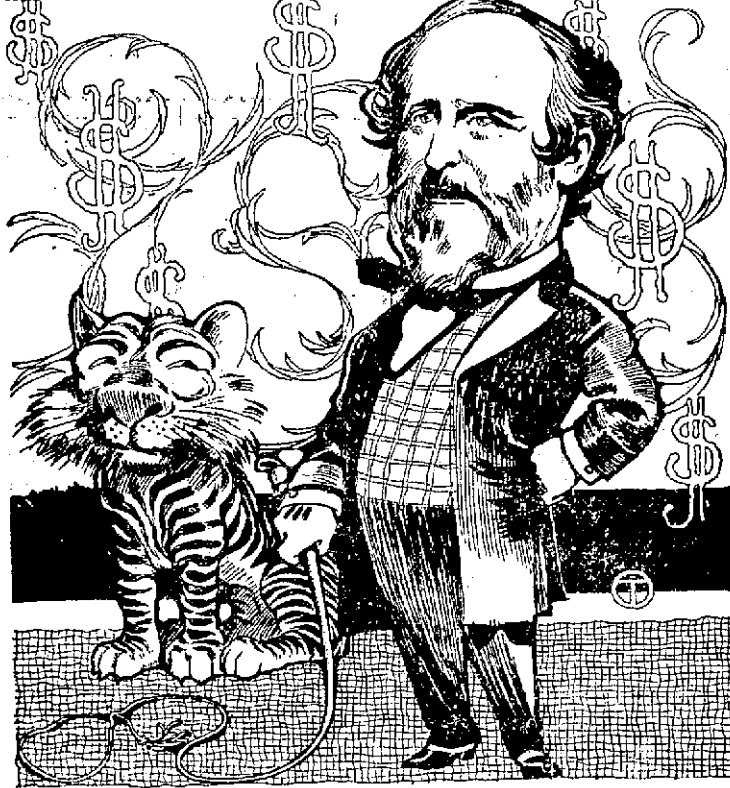

Smokeless powder, noiseless firearms and a Maxim silencer, such as McNamara dynamiters are alleged to have employed against their enemies, are adopted for the first time on the stage in "Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's thrilling new American play of modern metropolitan life, which The American Play Company is to present at the Myers Theatre, matinee and evening on Saturday, November 1. These ingenious devices of modern warfare—which makes possible the killing of a person, with practically a minimum danger of detection—are introduced by the playwright to inject an element of baffling mystery into the murder that forms one of the exciting scenes of "Within the Law." Although the audience sees a pistol drawn and the character at whom it is aimed drop seemingly lifeless, there is not the slightest report from the discharge of the bullet nor the faintest trace of smoke. It is the use of these weapons that makes so puzzling the solution of the crime in the play. In New York and Chicago where "Within the Law" is the current dramatic hit, the play was designated "the drama of the minute."

"THE INSPECTOR."

POLITENESS.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawsh."

POLITENESS is the lubricant which enables human beings to mingle without knocking the corners off of each other.

It is the piano finish of conversation. Politeness isn't a state of mind, but of words. Many a man can be perfectly polite and agreeable to another while he is longing to leap upon him with a hoarse growl and bite off his ear.

Politeness is the art of expressing what you ought to feel. When a man feels politeness and expresses it at the same time, he is a perfect gentleman. When he only expresses it, he is a good imitation. Sometimes the imitations sell for higher prices than the real things in the marriage market.

With the aid of politeness a man may make his way pleasantly through a cross and perspiring world, getting what he wants and having his own way. Politeness is a greater asset than financial ability. The financier has to work for his money, but the truly polite man can allow others to work for him and can make a lifelong friend of a creditor by the beautiful way in which he apologizes for not being able to pay him.

Some people wear their politeness all the time, while others take it off like an overcoat when they become heated and use the plain unvarnished cussword. After using politeness constantly and to excess for a few years a man's feelings and his conversation become total strangers and have Ghoulish Glee.

"From this time on," said he, when the only woman who had ever rejected him passed from his sight, "from this time mine shall be the delight to wreak vengeance on woman. I shall be a shoe salesman, and instead of selling them shoes one size too small, with my persuasive manner I shall make them buy them smaller still. Ha, ha!"

CATTLE AND SHEEP SUFFER BAD SLUMP

Beeves are Ten and TwentyFive Cents Lower and Sheep Are Down Nearly as Much.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Oct. 27.—A serious depression for cattle and sheep marked today's trade in livestock. Beeves were fully ten to twenty-five cents lower than Saturday and sheep were down ten and twenty cents. Unusually heavy receipts for both were in part responsible. Hogs were firm and prices slightly higher. Receipts at 25,000 were less than expected. Quotations are given below:
Cattle—Receipts 34,000; market weak, 10c and 25c lower; beeves 6.70@9.70; Texas steers 6.75@7.90; western steers 6.00@8.15; stockers and feeders 5.00@7.50; cows and heifers 3.40@8.30; calves 6.50@10.25.
Hogs—Receipts 25,000; market strong, 3c above Saturday's average; light 7.55@8.25; mixed 7.55@8.35; heavy 7.50@8.25; rough 7.45@7.60; pigs 4.50@7.50; bulk of sales 7.75@8.20.
Sheep—Receipts 66,000; market slow, 10c and 25c lower; native 3.00@4.00; western 3.85@4.90; yearlings 4.90@5.85; lambs, native 5.30@7.45; western 5.85@7.45.
Butter—unchanged.

DRAW JURY TO TRY BELOIT MURDER CASE

State versus Joseph Perruccio First Business to Come Before It—Several Jurors Excused.
Jurors to serve for the October term of the Circuit Court for Rock county were summoned at 2 p. m. this afternoon. There were thirty-six on the panel of which when the roll was called it was found that one was dead, two were out of the state at the time the papers were served, and a fourth had been in Canada three years. Four more were excused for business reasons. They were E. J. Plunkinger of Beloit, O. W. Bennett of Lima, J. J. Riordan of Beloit and J. H. Fisher of Center. This left twenty-five jurors remaining on the panel whereupon Judge George Grimm announced that the court was ready to draw the jury for the first case on the calendar, the State of Wisconsin versus Joseph Perruccio charged with the murder of Alessandro Polach. District Attorney Dunawidde, counsel for the state, Attorneys Thomas L. Nolan and T. D. Rose, attorneys for the defense, and the defendant were present. The examination of jurors continued until late in the afternoon. Several were excused for admitted convictions as to the innocence or guilt of the defendant.

McDOWELL CLUB ORGANIZED FOR WORK OF THE SEASON
A business meeting of the McDowell club was called for Friday morning of last week at the library. The officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. John L. Wilcox, in place of Mrs. John Sweeney, resigned; vice-president, Mrs. William Sherer; secretary, Miss Bessie Burch. They will meet as usual, during the winter, and occasionally have an outside attraction on the program. The next meeting will be decided upon later and the members notified.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

THEY WANT TO BE BRAKES.
Every one who knows anything about the world knows that it moves in an elliptical orbit around the sun. The path of the world has been calculated with nice exactitude by the astronomers. Of course way, way back in the mental woods there are folks who are so far behind that they still think the sun revolves around the earth. But they do not count. Neither do those who think that the world moves, but that its progress is in a straight line forward, and that they can retard it by getting in the way. If you are one of these, step aside, lest the world run over you.

Of such is the man in a southern state who would not pay his share of the increased taxes demanded by his county for a new schoolhouse. He went in the night and applied the torch to the building. Foolish man! The school will be rebuilt, despite his opposition, and the children of his county will have the benefit of newer and better quarters in which to study. Once there was a governor of Virginia in the old colonial days who said, referring to the colony: "Thank God, there are no free schools nor printing presses, and I hope there will be none for a hundred years, for learning has brought disobedience and heresy and sects into the world, and printing has divulged these and other evils."

He was a rare old fossil, wasn't he? The world moved on and past him, even in his own day, for the planters of Virginia resented his bigoted, narrow minded views and had the king recall him. Even in that day, when the light of learning had not shed its rays very far, he was too far out in the darkness for his fellow Virginians. It is encouraging to observe that his latter day follower, the southern man who burned the schoolhouse, is one of a very small minority in his own community, and prompt jailing followed his deed.

The opponents of "book learning," once common, are now scarce. Even those who themselves have derived little or no benefit from the teachings of the ages, crystallized in books, admit that for others the written word has merits.

But there are other directions in which the mind of the nonprogressive man moves. He will not see or admit the merit of new trends of thought, he will not move his lumbering mental wagon from the rut in the road. And the automobile of progress passes him and leaves him hopelessly in the rear.

New Phonograph Clock.
A phonograph clock has been perfected by Max Marcus, a German, after many years of labor. It not only keeps time to the second, but tells the time in a clear baritone voice. "Four o'clock!" and "Four-thirty!" says the clock in loud, distinct but very pleasantly modulated tones and the half and full hours may be repeated at will by the pressing of a button. The quarters are not spoken.

Rheumatism

Is A Constitutional Disease.
It manifests itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles—but it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires constitutional treatment, and the best is a course of the great blood purifying and tonic medicine Hood's Sarsaparilla which corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

Hardly Probable.
There is not much chance that a spinster who becomes really attached to a parrot will ever marry. She could not possibly find a man who would try to look and talk like that.

ANOTHER SPLENDID HUMAN DOCUMENT.

DO YOU dread to grow old? Do you think of all the years after sixty-five or seventy as a sort of stupid epilogue to the active drama of life?

If you do, a letter friend of mine has an illuminating message for you. Please read it.

"I have read with interest," she writes, "your article in last night's paper entitled 'Why grow old?' and wish that I could have a heart to heart talk with you, and could meet your friend of 72. I have a fellow feeling in my bosom for all such as she who keep a cheerful outlook upon life. I am nearly 74 years young, and feel as ready now to attack any problem of life as I did 25 years ago. It seems to me that my brain is more alert every day. I enjoy perfect health and am an omnivorous reader, very catholic in my tastes, and read and try to digest everything from psychology to beans.

"I take a 5 or 6 mile walk every morning when the weather permits, rising at 4 o'clock in the summer to do so. I have been married three times, and cannot yet say that marriage is a failure. Have raised six children, three grandchildren and am now rearing my youth while helping to care for a great grandson who is a delight to me.

"I am now studying Latin, am perfect in German and know enough French to understand when it is spoken. I taught both vocal and instrumental music for 41 years and think I am entitled to a front seat along with other teachers 'up yonder'. My life has been crowded with trouble, having had two daughters killed before my very eyes, one accidentally, the other—well, I can't write of it.

"I have taken up the study of birds and trees. Unfortunately I am very deaf, which deprives me of a great deal of pleasure, the greatest being my inability to listen to good lectures. But I do not complain. I've had my 'fling'. Have heard nearly every singer of note up to ten years ago, and enjoyed listening to the best actors. I've graduated in photography, have my diploma and am now writing moving picture plays, so as to be independent.

"In looking this over it may sound rather egotistical. That was not my object in writing. I wanted you to know that there are other so-called 'old ladies' who are young at 70. As Celia Thaxter sings, 'I stand in the sunshine sweet, and cherish every day!' I love and am loved, what more can I ask? Yours for a long life and a useful happy one."

look fine, velvety and glossy. Dip by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking pans and bake in a moderately quick oven about 45 minutes, or until very light. Fill the space inside with sliced peaches, or any desired filling. A very small opening is required on the side of the puff or filling. Cover with Allegretta frosting.

Material—Whites, eggs; powdered sugar; vanilla, one teaspoonful; lemon juice, one teaspoonful; unsweetened chocolate, three squares.

Directions—Break the whites of the eggs on a cold platter; beat with a lifting egg beater high. When very frothy, commence adding the sugar, doing so, beating hard until it will stand alone. Add the lemon juice and beat until stiff and shiny, then the vanilla. Spread this on each puff and let stand until dry. Have the chocolate in the bowl over the tea kettle of hot water. When the icing is not soft on top of the puff, take your spatula and dip up plenty of the chocolate on the broad blade and with a quick sweeping motion cover every bit of the icing with it. This will have to be repeated several times to cover all the icing. This is a delicious frosting or filling and can easily be done with a little practice. Any good cake recipe is nice with chocolate and decorated with nuts; cut in squares.

The KITCHEN CABINET

BEFORE you touch the colored cherries

Or start to open up the berries, This may ward off many worries: Read the label.

Soup bears the same relation to the dinner that a doorway bears to the house.

SOMETHING GOOD TO EAT.

Here is a prize recipe for pound cake which somebody will like to try: Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter to a cream, add a cup of sugar, the well beaten yolks of four eggs; add a little of a cup and a half of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder, and then add a teaspoon of milk. Add the rest of the flour and the beaten whites. Bake in a paper lined tin forty minutes.

Raisin and Celery Salad—Cut in small pieces two cups of celery, two oranges broken in bits and two-thirds of a cup of raisins, seeded and plumped over steam. Add a cup of grated apple to a cup of mayonnaise and cover the mixture with this. This is an especially delicious combination.

Cassole—This is a famous French dish, and is both historical and appetizing. Sculk over night a quart of lima beans; in the morning bring to the boiling point, then drain. Add fresh boiling water, a teaspoonful of salt, and let them cook until nearly soft. Place in a casserole two cups of cold cooked chicken or duck, add the beans, drained, an onion, sliced, half a cup of strained tomato, a quart of hot broth and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Bake one hour, uncovered, sprinkle with a little chopped parsley, brown and serve.

MUTT and JEFF. (1) Not at all. They cause one to walk more gracefully. (2) Yes. (3) I am sorry that I do not know of anything that will remove it. (4) Velvet hats and hats trimmed with lace and ribbon are very much worn. The small bonnet-like hat with a chin strap will be very popular for girls. (5) Dark blue, red or brown. (6) Pimples and blackheads are caused mostly by uncleanness, poor digestion, bad blood. Eat plenty of fruit and vegetables, drink at least three pints of pure water daily and keep your bowels open with a dose of Epsom salts when needed. Bathe often with plenty of water and soap. Exercise outdoors. Use a good cosmetic to clean the face at night. Prick pimples and blackheads with a sterilized needle, when soft, and press out gently, then anoint spot with peroxide. In a couple of months you will notice a decided improvement. (7) Yes, if it does not place you under obligations to him.

PRINCESS VISITS HER NATIVE LAND

Princess Michel Murat.

The Prince and Princess Michel Murat of Paris are now in this country on a two weeks' visit. The princess was Miss Helen McDonald Stallo, a daughter of Edmund K. Stallo of New York. The prince is a lineal descendant of Marshal Murat, the brilliant cavalry leader of the first Napoleon. This is his first visit to America, and this is the first time the princess has returned to her native land since her marriage to the titled Frenchman last February.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Cut and wash the nice leaves from the celery you are now buying, tie with a cord and hang up to dry. When dry, put them in a can and use for seasoning soups or dressing.

To straighten your rug corners, make a stiff starch, take your rug to a sunny place on a porch, turn it upside down, apply the starch to the corners and leave the rug to dry. You can clean white silk slippers with gasoline or a paste of magnesia and gasoline.

To remove old varnish, dissolve three tablespoonfuls of baking soda in a quart of water and apply with a rough cloth.

THE TABLE. Onion Sandwiches—Beat two eggs until light, then add half a cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of mustard, one tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter and mix well together, add half a cupful of vinegar and cook in a double boiler until it thickens. Allow to become cold. Spread slices of bread with the dressing, then put between a layer of onions sliced very thin and press firmly together. These are nice served with fried chicken.

Bran Cookies—One-half cup of sugar, one-half cup of molasses, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of shortening, one teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, three cups of bran and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Sift the soda and spices into the bran and mix thoroughly, add the other ingredients, the shortening melted over hot water, and mix all together thoroughly. Drop from a spoon upon a buttered pan. Bake about fifteen minutes. The spices may be omitted.

Minced Ham in Cider Cups—Chop fine enough cold boiled ham to measure one cupful, add one-half of a cupful of minced celery, the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs mashed fine, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and one-fifth of a teaspoonful of cayenne.

Arkansas Woman Is a Fire Fighter

Miss Mary McCabe.

The fire drill in the schools of Arkansas is a result of the work being done in the city schools of Little Rock by Miss McCabe, vice-president for Arkansas of the National Fire Prevention Association. Miss McCabe is doing much more than this in her enthusiasm for fire prevention. She has visited a number of the cities and held mass meetings in which she addressed the property owners, advising them to abandon the shingle roof, and as far as possible the inflammable buildings, even in residence districts.

NATURE'S REMEDIES FOR DIS-EASE.

Every Fall in olden times the family medicine chest was replenished with roots, herbs and barks, nature's remedies for disease. Scullcap for nervousness, Pennyroyal for colds, Clover Blossoms for the blood, Thoroughwort for colds, Wormwood and Echinacea for sprains, and so on. It is interesting to note that the most successful remedy for female ills the world has ever known had its origin nearly forty years ago from roots and herbs and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made today in immense quantities from those same roots and herbs with extreme accuracy, care and cleanliness. The standard remedy for female ills. Advertisement.

pepper. Immediately before serving add 1 teaspoonful of whipped cream. Soak one-half of a package of gelatin in one-half of a teacupful of cold water. Pour over it one pint of boiling cider in which one-half of a teacupful of sugar has been dissolved, add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and strain into the molds. When firm remove from mold, fill with the ham and serve.

Stewed Peas and Eggs—One tablespoonful of olive oil, quarter peck of peas, one small onion, half a cupful of boiling water, two lumps of sugar, a little fresh mint, three eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Fry the onion sliced in the oil, with the salt and pepper. Pick the peas over carefully, wash and drain them, then add to oil and onion, the water, sugar, peas and mint. Cook the peas till very tender, then break the eggs into a cup, and slip them carefully into the peas. Cook till they are set, and dish up on a hot dish.

Just So! "I wonder," mused the thoughtful looking man, "why so many people put their wallets under their pillow before going to sleep?" "Well," suggested the club wit without hesitation, "maybe they like to have a little money to fall back on."

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two chums of sixteen years. There are two boys one year our senior with whom we are deeply in love, but they lately seem to pay no attention whatever to us. They seem to be very nice boys.

(1) If you were us, would you drop them entirely or make up if they apologize, as they have already done once?

(2) How old should a girl be before keeping company with a boy?

(3) Do you think it is of any harm to come home with a strange boy from a concert or a park?

(4) Will you please give me the recipe for divinity fudge?

B. & N. N. (1) I would not pay much attention to them if they didn't pay much attention to me, my dears. Boys are fickle, you know, and they probably are getting tired of girls who think they are deeply in love.

(2) She should be eighteen, at least.

(3) Not if he has been introduced to you by somebody who knows the boy is fit company for you.

(4) Divinity Fudge—Part A: Three cups granulated sugar, one cup corn syrup, one-third cup water to dissolve sugar.

Part B: One-half cup granulated sugar with water enough to dissolve it.

Put both parts on to cook separately, at the same time. Have English walnuts cracked and chopped fine. When Part B is done so it will snap in ice water, pour it over the well-beaten whites of three eggs and beat until Part A is done (when it makes a very hard ball in ice water). Beat Part A into the first mixture—must put on a very large platter. Add two cups nut meats and two tablespoons burnt sugar caramel or vanilla flavor. Beat till ready to press into buttered pans. Cut in squares.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls of sixteen.

FRESHMAN BANQUET
DRAWS BIG CROWD

Reception Saturday Evening at High School Attended by Nearly Three Hundred—Success is Result.

Following a hard and gloomy defeat received at the hands of the Beloit eleven, in the afternoon, close to three hundred freshmen, seniors, faculty, football men and waiters packed the auditorium of the high school Saturday evening and witnessed one of the grandest receptions ever given by a senior class to the incoming freshmen.

The opening feature was the grand march. Starting at eight o'clock, with perhaps one hundred and fifty couples in line, the orchestra was forced to play to rover an hour, while the mixed crowd of upper and lower classes were becoming acquainted with each other.

Members of the football eleven were all lame, and several good cheerers were given to them, who had made their bravest attempt to subdue the squad from Beloit. "On Wisconsin" could be heard repeatedly from the street for a long time, as could many other songs.

Following the grand march, in which all of the events, already mentioned, took place, the crowd gathered together their chairs and prepared for the program. Following a witty welcoming given by Karl Frick, president of the seniors, a response was given by little Halley Day, who gave a short talk, thanking the seniors for this wonderful evening which they had prepared. A newspaper edited by members of the senior class, was given in sections. Victor Hemming gave the sporting page in a clever manner. Bernice Austin gave the dramatic section. Katherine Roherty reviewed the society events of the year. Russell Smiley was called upon for the ad. section.

Frank Kennedy, the dwarf of the seniors, together with his pet dog, made a humorous appearance upon the state, when he gave a verse monologue, which brought forth much cheer.

Helen Franklin appeared with one of the latest dances of the day. She was light on her feet, and her graceful poses were applauded so much that she was forced to return. She responded with the Scottish polka.

Refreshments composed of Pistachio and vanilla ice cream in bricks, macaroons, and lady-fingers, were served from the school parlors, directly south of the auditorium. It took nearly two hours to serve the crowd. They broke up at twelve o'clock, after attending a most successful banquet.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

CLINTON

Clinton, Oct. 25.—Mrs. James A. Chamberlain of Janesville spent Thursday afternoon here the guest of Miss Addie J. Smith, corner of Church and Cross streets.

Superintendent Douglas of the Logansport, Ind., schools made a special trip from Hammond, Ind., where he was attending the state teachers' convention to Clinton last Thursday to visit the scenes of his first school, when he was 17 years old. He came up to Clinton and taught school in the A. Hern district, just north of Turtle Creek and boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Hern. This was thirty-eight years ago and he came up to visit the old familiar place again, the same school house being used today. Prof. Douglas has been teaching continually since he left here and has the honor of being superintendent of one school, the greatest numbers of years of any superintendent in the state of Indiana, viz. twenty-three years superintendent of the Logansport schools. He found a fellow Hoosier and he and E. B. Kizer swapped Hoosier stories for an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Spence moved into Mrs. Cheever's home Thursday.

W. O. Newhouse, wife and son of Janesville motored down to Clinton Thursday, combining business and pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson were in Beloit Thursday, they are contemplating moving to Beloit.

R. E. Green and Dr. Corless of Walworth were here yesterday and purchased a fine team of horses for the doctor.

Mrs. Stevens and daughter, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Macauliffe returned to her home in Rockford Friday.

Mrs. Lyle Smith of Rockford is visiting friends north of town for a few days.

Donald Barrus is the new Janesville Gazette carrier boy in Clinton in place of Alfred Korbe, resigned.

Assemblyman Simon Smith of Beloit was here yesterday.

The concert at the Methodist church Thursday night delighted the large audience present.

Mrs. J. W. Stoney went to Elkhorn Friday to visit a few days. She will go to Springfield from there for a few days.

Charles Lee was in Janesville yesterday on legal business.

Mrs. Spence was in Sharon Friday.

Mrs. Flora Smith went to Chicago this morning to visit her son and family for a few days before going to Nebraska to spend the winter.

Mrs. E. G. Pease went to Milwaukee this evening to visit her father until Monday evening.

Mrs. Pauline Jones (Warner of Milton Junction) was here yesterday.

The high school literary entertainment last night was a great success. A full house was present, and the scholars were a great credit to themselves and their instructors.

BROWN MURDER CASE COMES UP FOR TRIAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 27.—The case of William W. Brown, under indictment for first degree murder, was called in the Madison county court today for trial. Brown, an aged and respected resident of the town of Ingalls, is charged jointly with his son, George W. Brown, with the murder of a stable Albert Hawkins, at Ingalls, last July.

CONCERT BY CHOIRS
IS DECIDED SUCCESS

Congregational Church Filled to Capacity Yesterday Afternoon.—Lutheran Convention Closes.

The First Congregational church was filled to its capacity yesterday afternoon at the closing concert given by the chorus of choirs from the Norwegian Synod Lutheran choirs of Beloit, Janesville, Orfordville, Edgerton, Whitewater, and Capron and Lee Illinois, this despite the inclement weather that persisted throughout the day. Those who came felt well repaid for their pains. Each number was well rendered and the harmony, volume and evenness of tone in the chorus selections can not be considered other than remarkable in view of the fact that the choirs composing it had not been able to have more than two or three rehearsals together. It was evident, however, that the choirs individually had practiced long and faithfully before attempting to sing together. To the Rev. W. A. Johnson of Capron, Illinois, who acted as director, is due great credit for the excellent results obtained for the choruses, all of them difficult selections.

Miss Lillian Rutlin of Madison, soprano, who sang three selections, is new to Janesville audiences, and gave such pleasure that it is hoped she may be heard here again. She has a voice of singular sweet tone, good range, and under excellent control. Her enunciation is clearer than that of many who are better known in the musical world, and her stage appearance very pleasing.

The concert closed the convention of Lutheran Young People's Societies in the Southern Wisconsin Association, which was a success in every respect. The attendance from all the churches in the district was very good. Many came yesterday to hear the musical program, Beloit being especially well represented. The Rev. Harry Olson of Milwaukee conducted services at the Congregational church at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

The program given yesterday afternoon was as follows:

"Jehovah Reigns"..... Mendelssohn Chorus.

"The Radiant Morn"..... Woodward Chorus.

"My Redeemer and My Lord"..... Vocal solo, Miss Lillian Rutlin.

"Three Lutheran Chorals"—From "St. Paul"..... Mendelssohn Chorus.

"Forever With The Lord"..... Gounod Chorus.

Intermission.

"Heaven"..... Trinity church choir of Beloit.

"By the Waters of Babylon"..... Vocal solo, Miss Lillian Rutlin.

"Gloria"—From "Twelfth Mass"..... Mozart Chorus.

"The Heavens Are Telling"..... Hayden Chorus.

"A Mighty Fortress is Our God"..... Luther Chorus and Audience.

LIMA COUPLE MARRIED ON WEDNESDAY LAST

Miss Clara Braun and William Fry Take Nuptial Vows—Will Live at Evansville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Lima, Oct. 25.—On Wednesday occurred the marriage of Miss Clara Braun and William Fry. The happy event took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Braun and was attended by about forty-five neighbors and friends. The young people will live in Evansville.

Mr. McComb took a load of young foks to the hard times social on the town line on Friday evening.

Several were up from Milton to the harvest supper on Friday evening.

Mr. Van Horn is nursing a sore hand these days.

The house-cleaning fever has some of the house-wives in its clutches.

The Whitewater Register gives out the startling information that the Lima Mutual Fire Insurance Company has gone out of business, and that the heavy assessments made during the last few weeks. Such, however, is not the case. The company has had less than two hundred dollars ($200) in losses this year, no assessment in two years, and is still in the game.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher
Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

Yesterday, it seems, we shivered, in the bleak of December blast, and I've just this here, discovered that the year is going fast! Soon again, yes, ere we know it, wintry blasts again will freeze painter, plumber, printer, poet, and such citizens as these. Soon I again we'll hear the howling of the wind in the bleak and cheerless dawn: "Go and do your Christmas shopping ere the final rush is on." How many years go whizzing by us! When may I think how fast they've walked, his remarks are scarcely pious, and the women folks are shocked. Yesterday, or day before it, I was young, and full of pride: I'd achieved—I grimly swore it—mighty things before I died. And I've just been round the edges of the things I meant to do, just got started with my wedges on the trees I meant to hew; and already I am waxing old and withered, tired and lame, and I feel my gut-laxing, and I've sort of lost my aim. Man imagines he is youthful till he wakes some winter day, and the morning cold and truthful, tells him he is old and gray. He has aged with all his neighbors, winter makes him understand; and he goes back to his labors with a tired and heavy hand.

London Lost Musical Honor.

There was a period of his life in which Handel, the famous composer, retired from London in a fit of disgust. He went to Dublin and it was there—in the Dublin Music hall—that his great masterpiece, "The Messiah," was produced. "The performance," writes D. A. Chart, "was for the benefit of Mercer's hospital. In order to provide room for a large audience, ladies were requested to lay aside their hoops and gentlemen their swords. By this means an audience of 700 was crowded into the space, and the concert realized $2,000."

FOR INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, GAS OR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Time it! In five minutes your nauseated stomach feels fine—Stops fermentation.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an unpalatable one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; it's harmless; it's certain; it's unailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. It's millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach, all such distress vanishes. It's promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

HOLTON of THE NAVY

A Story of the Freeing of Cuba

By LAWRENCE FERRY

Author of "Dan Merritt,"
"Prince of Chautauque," etc.Illustrations
by Ellsworth Young

for now, if at any time, attempts at the destruction of the transports would be made, there being no secrecy whatever as to the intentions of the United States government. Then arrived the day when the boys in blue came in from Lakeland, and, with cheers and shouts, marched aboard the long line of transports, from whose funnels clouds of smoke were belching.

Holton's crew had been augmented by four extra seamen, sent to him from Key West, and each night they stood guard with him on various parts of the deck, rifles in their hands and navy collars strapped about their waists.

Toward midnight most of the noise, the shouting of orders, the rattling of tackle, the tramp of feet, died away.

"I Am Quite Happy at My Change of Prisons."

Holton gave Conroy the wheel, and walked along the deck, speaking to each of the men as he passed.

"Keep a sharp lookout. Challenge anything that looks suspicious, and shoot without hesitation if there's no reply."

At two o'clock the Gnat was just making a wide turn at the end of the slip, preparatory to proceeding up the line, when Holton saw against the blackness a deeper black—something that seemed to move.

It was out in the bay, perhaps two hundred yards. As he lowered his head, straining his eyes into the sable curtain, he found he had lost whatever he had seen.

Perhaps his imagination had played him false. But no, that could not be, for in his first glance he remembered that some stars on the horizon had been blotted out by the object. That certainly was suggestive of its tangibility.

Holton went to the little bridge, and, pointing out the spot where he had last seen the moving blot on the night, ordered the Gnat to head in that direction at half-speed.

For five minutes the little craft proceeded out into the bay, and then suddenly Holton made out clearly the outlines of a small tugboat, with a skiff in tow.

"Heave to, or I'll fire!" cried Holton.

Still no reply, but the propeller of the tug could be heard churning the water in excess speed.

Without further word, Holton snatched the rifle from the sailor's hand, took quick aim, and let drive. As a response, there came five shots in rapid succession from the tug, the bullets rattling through the Gnat's funnel and ventilators.

"Full speed ahead!" cried Holton, in full exaltation at hearing for the first time the whistle of bullets discharged in anger. "Right into her," he added, forgetful of his boat's "tin bow"—"run her down!"

When within a hundred feet the Gnat sheered off, made a detour, and rounded to in front of the tug's bow. "Stop!" yelled Holton, leveling the rifle. "Stand by that machine gun," he added in a low tone to the man at his side.

The tug stopped abruptly, but not a sound came from her. "What boat is that?" called Holton.

No reply. As the bow of the torpedo boat rasped against the fenders of the stranger, Holton, his pistol in hand, leaped over her guards to the deck. Three of his men followed.

Then, as though by magic, shadowy forms arose. A dark figure moved swiftly at Holton's side, and as his revolver blazed in the man's face, he felt the sharp impact of a weighted club upon his shoulder.

Another man seized him from behind, and in an instant the deck was the scene of a wild hand-to-hand fight. Holton felled his foe with a revolver and then turned to the assistance of one of his seamen, beset by two men. Revolvers were banging on all sides, wildly, as it appeared to Holton, for he caught fleeting glimpses of his three men fighting as American sailormen can.

In a flash of light Holton saw a man bending at the stern. In his hand was the match whence the flash had come. The officer darted swiftly toward him. He saw a sputter of sparks. Quick as thought he turned.

"Men of the Gnat, overboard!" he roared. "Dynamite!"

Suiting action to his words, he dived swiftly into the dark waters, and the next instant the Port of Tampa was startled by an explosion which shattered the windows of the hotel and brought thousands rushing out into the night.

Holton's first thought, as soon as his head emerged above the water, was to make sure of his position, which fortunately was not ten yards from that occupied by the Gnat. He made her in several strokes, and was fished over the side by a sailor.

The man at the wheel had lighted a red flare, and by this means the other three men in the water were guided to their vessel. Beyond a few bruises, all were uninjured.

In the meantime Holton was not too busy to notice that the explosion had thrown the harbor into wild confusion. Rowboats were everywhere, having sprung on the water as though by magic, and the decks of the transports were alive with figures. Search-lights were flashing in every direction; and men's voices arose in a babel of confusion.

As soon as practicable Holton changed his water-soaked clothing and went ashore, leaving the Gnat to continue her patrol.

There was little doubt in his mind that the men in the vessel were bent on the destruction of the transports; that the explosives aboard her were to be placed under the sterns of a dozen or more of the steamships, and then set off by a single electric spark. Holton believed that the tug had gone as near to the slip as she intended to go when he discovered her, and that further operations were to have been conducted from the row boat towing astern.

Dawn was approaching as Holton waited for the Gnat to make her inshore turn, and as the light was now filtering across the heavens he followed his usual custom of putting out of the bay for a look at things on the open water. The air of the morning, fresh and cool, blew against his face and filled him with inspiration.

Today the transports would leave for Cuba, his period of nightly round would end, and he, too, would start for the battle-ground; for in his pocket were orders to report to Admiral Sampson for further instructions the moment the transports were safely off the Cuban coast. And then—?

No such furor as attended their previous sallies from port marked their departure this time. The ardent public had grown a bit weary of successive good-bys, and remained away from the water-front, so that the only eclat that marked the occasion was furnished by the soldiers themselves.

Holton, trailing along in the little Gnat, viewed with joyous eyes the scene spread before him, and truly it was one remarkable in many ways. Over seven miles of water stretched the fleet, the transports steaming in long, stately line, flanked by grim, leaden-hued torpedo boats and gunboats, which flew here and there, megaphoning orders to the transport.

On the third day, Romano Key and the blue mountains were raised to starboard. On June 20 the fleet was off the Cuban coast, twenty miles from Santiago. Here the Segurana, the headquarters ship, steamed away from the other transports, and went up toward Aserraderos.

Holton, hardly knowing what was up, following his instructions not to lose this vessel, steamed after her and eventually made out the mouse-colored bulk of the New York, flagship of Sampson's squadron.

Mindful of his orders to report to the commander-in-chief as soon as the transports were off the coast, Holton put the Gnat under full headway, and soon lay alongside the war-ship's gangway. He knew most of the company aboard her, and was warmly welcomed as he went up the ladder.

Presently an orderly returned with a summons for Holton. Sampson was standing by a table as Holton entered and saluted. The young officer had never seen him before, and he viewed with great and kindling interest this grave man with his thoughtful forehead, his steady, scholarly blue eyes, his white beard and mustache.

The admiral looked at Holton for a moment, and then he said:

"Mr. Holton, I fear I am about to ask you to undertake a dangerous mission."

GOOPS

By GELETT BURGESS

JANE EVANS

I dread to see Jane Evans drink; She is a 'gusting Goop. I think. She guggs and bubbles in her glass, A most unpleasant little lass! She gazes round her, as she swallows;— Now hear the choking cough that follows!

Don't Be A Goop!

HOW A BROOKLYN GIRL

Got Strong and Well Again.

Grace D. Lamb of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was all run-down and on the verge of nervous prostration. I could not sleep for pain in my back. In all I was a wreck. A friend told me what Vinol had done for her little girl so I tried it. I noticed an improvement after the first bottle. I could sleep well, my appetite improved and after taking three bottles I am strong and well again."

Vinol is the most efficient strength creator for such women. It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in Vinol aided by the blood making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so far superior to all other tonics to build up health and strength for weak, tired, ailing women. It contains no oil and has a delicious taste.

We give back your money if Vinol does not do all that we claim. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Jansville, Wis. If you have any skin trouble try Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

Dinner Stories

Wilkie Bard tells a story of a husband and wife who were always quarreling. A friend called one evening and found them in the middle of a row. After the storm had subsided a little he ventured to remonstrate with the husband.

"Look here," he said, "you shouldn't quarrel like that, you know. Look at the dog and cat lying there."

They get on very well together. "Yes, they may," retorted the husband, "but you tie them together and see what happens then."

An English inspector once visited the infants' department of a school, and among the many questions he put to the children was one regarding the number of seeds an apple usually contained. The children were quite unable to answer his question. Turning to them, he said: "My dear children, if you do not notice the small things in life you will grow up into great, big idiots!" During recreation a few minutes afterwards one or two little misses began to play "school" as most children do. A "school" as most children do. A "school" as most children do. A "school" as most children do.

On Leap Year. Weary William—"I wouldn't have many national holidays if I had my way—only 365, that's all." Frayed Philip—"So yer'd make us pore fellers work one day every four years, would yer, yer slave driver!"

FEEL YOUNG!

It's Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets For You.

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, unless you take yourself in hand. Coax the jaded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards' believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets open the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with Olive oil, you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two occasionally and have no trouble with your liver, bowels or stomach. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.
